Harish Walavalkar

Mumbai
Resource Network

Overview

With a corporate career spanning over twenty years and core competency in business development, Harish has held management positions across many sectors including manufacturing, architecture, and building & construction, before finding his passion in the learning & development arena. Harish has operated across many geographies in India.

Harish leads Forum's business development efforts in West India where he engages with major Indian companies and multi-national organisations to help them build their people's capabilities in leadership, sales and service. Harish is also part of the Executive Coaching faculty and engages in executive coaching assignments with Forum's clients.

Experience

Having worked with companies such as TATA Unisys, Phil Corporation (Konica Films, Polaroid Cameras), Walltracts LLC, Harish has hands-on experience in sales, branch management, and regional management where he was responsible for opening up new territories and in Training and Coaching people. This enables him to get people to excel in their professions through learning and development. It is this work that led him to Forum India.

Education and Certifications

His education background is as an Engineer, with further education leading to MBA (PGEMP), DBM, and DCA. Additionally he has completed the International Coaching Federation accredited Coach Training course from FastTrack Coach Academy (USA) and has attended the Intensive Coach Training from NeuroLeadership Group.
